AN ANTHOLOGY OF INDIAN PHILOSOPHY

Intercultural Perspective

VINCENT GABRIEL FURTADO

AN ANTHOLOGY OF INDIAN PHILOSOPHY is a collection of essays dealing with the salient features of Intercultural Philosophy, what way India can efficaciously contribute towards the development of the global movement of Intercultural Philosophy; in the process, how India can rejuvenate its own philosophical tradition by effectively participating in the Intercultural Philosophical trends.

The first seven essays elaborate intercultural themes and the next seven delve in philosophical and soteriological themes; finally last six essays touch upon social and pedagogical themes. The introductory essay argues whether there is a real philosophy in India that can be named as 'Indian Philosophy'; if so, what could be its nature, can it be characterised as authentic and pure thought.
