Editor: Raúl Fornet-Betancourt

CONCORDIA, which has been published since 1982, has as one of its main goals the promotion of communication between philosophers in the Americas and Europe. Each issue therefore publishes unpublished works in English, French, German, Spanish and English. An essential part of this task, which is seen as a contribution to the development of a philosophy in an intercultural perspective, is also the publication of interviews with representative thinkers of our time. Thus CONCORDIA has already published interviews with, among others:

Jean-Paul Sartre, Emmanuel Levinas, Michel Foucault, Karl-Otto Apel, Mario Bunge, Luis Villoro, Maurice Godelier, Gustavo Gutiérrez, Karel Kosík, Niklas Luhmann, Francisco Miró Quesada, Enrique Dussel, Leopoldo Zea, Julia Kristeva, Judith Butler, Seyla Benhabib and Agnes Heller.

As a complement to the intercultural perspective, CONCORDIA also aims to promote interdisciplinarity in current philosophical reflection, and opens its pages to studies from other disciplines, such as the social sciences, cultural anthropology and theology. CONCORDIA aims to be a point of convergence and a vehicle for the discourses of intellectuals concerned with contributing to the understanding and transformation of our world.

CONCORDIA is a biannual publication with an annual subscription of 22 dollars. For orders and information, please contact:
